Bruce-

I will forward your questions to Lorena and she will respond to you. Please tell Lili to call me, I would be happy to speak to her.

Alan

Allen,

The Hot Import Nights website is advertising that the event will once again be held in San Pedro this year (Sept 23).

Even though I managed to get the adult content removed from the event last year, what remains of this event is just loud and dumb as a hammer handle.

And once again - even though there were promises in writing from Parker and the BID that the event would comply with all local laws and ordinances, the noise level was in massive violation of the applicable noise ordinances (Officer Nua can verify that the noise from this event was audible several blocks from the source). The sound stage which can only legally operate till 9pm continued till 10 pm, and the breakdown for the stage (which once again was placed across the street from a residential building) lasted well past 3am in the morning.

Needless to say I am not interested in having an event like this anywhere near my residence again, and holding an event like this (which means an event with a sound radius from the main stage over 1000 feet) where it would interfere with the quiet enjoyment of any residential property is not appropriate. I would appreciate it if the BID is going to support and/or facilitate this event again that it be moved out of the downtown area and that this move be communicated to the event organizer... and me sometime soon.

Please get back to me on this.

The board's oversight of this event has been embarrassingly lacking in past years, so I would also appreciate it if you exercise some due diligence and reach out to Lili Boccanfuso (wife of Neil of Neils Restaurant/ 383 W 5th) to get her feedback on what it was like for her restaurant last year when Hot Import Nights was parked outside Neil's, and the promises that Parker made to her husband to get him to sign off on the permit (I can guarantee you they are not going to get suckered by her into signing off on this event again).

There are a couple of businesses in my building (center street lofts) that are negatively impacted by this event every year. I know of a few businesses on 6th street that would greatly appreciate this event be relocated... but as you know, property owners, not business owners are the signatures that go on the permit survey form... so in many cases, the people that make their living here are not the people that decide if this "life-style event" ends up on their door step.

Thanks,
